Our dreams of caravans of gorgeous textiles are realized in "Cleveland Textiles, 1952" hung in Gallery 7 of The Cleveland Museum of Art through March 16. Yardage of weavings and printed wools, silks, linens, rayons, cottons and nylons have been made by Cleveland craftsmen. Colors range from gently neutral to gay and dashing. Patterns will meet a great range of requirement, intended for places where they should be unobtrusive or dramatically attention compelling. For those interested in dress or household decoration it is a delightful experience to see, also, in this exhibition, the flowers, grasses, woods, roots, even butterflies which have suggested many of the pattern designs.
